PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Well, it's another year and I hope everyone is having a great holiday season.

We are getting ready for our After-Christmas Party (February 8th) and our annual Flea Market (February 22nd). If you have not been active in Club activities, it sure would be appreciated if you could help out with the Flea Market and then come and enjoy our After-Christmas Party.

'Til next time, stay warm and
THINK SPRING!
Michael

Car Trivia
See answer on page 9

Q: What U.S. production car has the quickest 0-60 mph time?

Alert from Bob Cirilli on keeping your car insured.

Be advised that the state of PA is now following up on all insurance cancellations on antique or collector cars. When the state is notified by the insurance company that insurance has been dropped you will get a notice demanding an explanation of the transaction. When sold they want a copy of the bill of sale or a copy of both sides of the title. I have recently experienced this and several of my friends have as well. If you sell keep records as you will need them.

Editor's Note: The above applies to all vehicles, not just antique or collector cars, and it is true whether you intentionally cancel your insurance or it is cancelled by your insurer. An article on the Gannon Insurance website warns that "PA state law requires you to insure all registered vehicles. If you drop the insurance on a registered vehicle – regardless if it's intentional or not, and even if only for a day – your registration is subject to a 3-month suspension. You must return the registration plate, sticker, and card to the DMV. However, if you reinstate your insurance quickly, you can avoid the suspension by signing an affidavit declaring that nobody operated the vehicle while it was uninsured."

If you're late paying your insurance premium—even by only one day—your insurer can cancel your policy. It must then report the cancellation to the state. You may have a grace period to pay and reinstate your coverage, but in the meantime, the state has been notified that your insurance was cancelled. If you drive your car during the suspension period, but sign an affidavit stating that the vehicle was not operated during that time, you have committed a misdemeanor. The best way to avoid this situation? Always pay your premium by the due date.
