Q: What car delivered the first V12 engine?

Tour to Kalamazoo, MI

Six couples met with anticipation for the start of our journey to Kalamazoo. There were six cars starting out on an adventure led by Steve Illsley. We had a loose schedule, walkie-talkies and GPS to guide us on our travel for the next five days. It was disappointing when we just made it to Ohio and one car had mechanical problems and was towed back for repairs. And it was very discouraging when only four cars made it to Kalamazoo.

However, our members have a lot of spunk. The next morning when we met for our first destination, everyone was there. For the next two days, it was cars, cars and more cars along with a couple of planes. Our last day was spent sightseeing at Lake Michigan. Our trip home was pleasant.

The weather was perfect. The people were wonderful. We saw a lot and have many memories. Thanks, Steve, for the great trip.

Answer to Car Trivia Question from Page 4
A: The cylinder wars were kicked off in 1915 after Packard's chief engineer, Col. Jesse Vincent, introduced its Twin-Six.
